Mainstream's Software Development
Peace of mind the first time!

Enterprise level performance for custom software development

Are you looking for a true, trusted advisor and strategic development partner? Let us show you how Mainstream combines the best talent with rigorous best practices for peace of mind, every time. Regardless of your company's software development strategy, Mainstream can show you a better way. Here's how Mainstream is . . .

A Better Way to Extend Your Staff
Why put yourself through the stress and uncertainty of recruiting your next developer? You can hire Mainstream instead, where you will:
- Have access to a deep staff full of A-players
- Get well-documented work with long-term access to the people who wrote the system in the first place
- Have access to a whole company of developers invested in your success as much as your most tenured employees

More Than Staff Augmentation
Are you tired of doing all the vetting of contract programmers? Frustrated by losing all your institutional knowledge when your contract programmer leaves? You can hire Mainstream instead because:
- You benefit from the equity of our long track record and high staff retention.
- Your institutional knowledge is retained.
- A provider who values your success more than the contract term.

More than an Outsourced Developer
We are business people who understand the needs and challenges of business. We're more than problem solvers. We're working to deliver solutions that exceed your expectations. With Mainstream, you will gain:
- The best minds in the business working on your challenges, each time
- Availability, and compatibility in language and time zones
- A partner who understands the value of your investment in custom software, and the risk you take in doing so.
